innovation

...in this changing world...everybody needs Next Practice....in this changing world....everybody needs Next Practice...in this changing world....everybody needs Next Practice....in this changing world...everybody needs Next Practice.....

In every organisation or system you hear the words "spreading the best practice"...

Best Practice asks what is working?

Next Practice asks what could work – more powerfully?

NEXT PRACTICE is...

practitioner-led

robust and disciplined

shaping the future

anticipating trends

creating radical new solutions

user-generated

challenging the status quo

brokering the best knowledge, skills and experience from all sectors

using practitioner expertise to realise the ambition of policy makers

THE INNOVATION UNIT

Over the past three years, The Innovation Unit has become a key contributor to the evolution of public service innovation. Working in partnership with some of the most aspirational children's services leaders and professionals, we have developed a disciplined approach to stimulating, incubating, and accelerating innovation. It's called Next Practice and is strongly driven by practitioners and by users' needs. Next Practice offers a new approach to transforming education.

The Innovation Unit portfolio contains processes and techniques that can be tailored to address some of the most challenging educational and social issues. These have been tried and tested within education and children's services and are now moving out to other sectors. They can be customised for different settings and address particular local needs – wherever they arise.

If you are interested in this work and would like to find out more about what The Innovation Unit can offer you, please contact Claire McEneaney by phone on: (020) 7259 1232 or by e-mail at: claire.mceneaney@innovation-unit.co.uk.

NEXTPRACTICE

...in this changing world...everybody needs Next Practice....in this changing world....everybody needs Next Practice...in this changing world....everybody needs Next Practice....in this changing world...everybody needs Next Practice.....

www.innovation-unit.co.uk

innovation